

FLAGMAN RUN OVER

Slept at His Post and Answered with His Life.

A MILITARY ENCAMPMENT

North Carolina Teachers Are Expected to Attend Some Summer Normal, Twenty-Three Liquor Licenses Granted.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
RALEIGH, N. C., July 1.—John Mann, a flagman on the Southern Railway, was struck and instantly killed about 3 o'clock this morning by Seaboard Air Line Train No. 28. Mann was sent back from a freight train to his post, to sleep on the track at a point near the penitentiary, where the Southern and Seaboard tracks are parallel. He was awakened by the approach of a train, which he thought was the Southern, so he jumped on the Seaboard track just in front of the train. His body was badly mangled. No blame is attached to either road.

MILITARY ENCAMPMENT.
Colonel Pearl, private secretary to the Governor, issued a statement this morning that the newspaper report that Charlotte has been selected as the place of encampment for the First Regiment is a mistake. No selection has been made for either of the three regiments. The committee, consisting of Colonel Macon, Colonel Pearl and Colonel Craig, the latter of Jacksonville, are here to-day considering Raleigh as the place of encampment for the First Regiment. Mr. F. B. Arnold will start out next Monday on a visitation to the various manufacturing concerns of the State, to solicit contributions toward the $50,000 fund proposed to be raised by popular subscription for the North Carolina exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition. Mr. Hugh G. Cheatham, of Elkin, will also call on a number of the larger manufacturers on a similar mission. The promoters of the movement are confident of success, and expect the greatest exhibit at St. Louis the State has ever had.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction J. J. Joyner has issued a ruling to the effect that every public school must attend to the normal school this summer or be disqualified for teaching this fall. This is under the operation of the act of the last Legislature requiring teachers to attend normals at least every other year.

The summer normal school at Agricultural and Mechanical College opened this afternoon with more than 200 teachers in attendance. Registration began at 9 o'clock this morning, and the various schools organized in the afternoon. The final exam was held at 1 o'clock to-night, when addresses were made by Major B. F. Dixon, State Auditor; A. B. Andrews, Jr., Rev. G. W. Clements, J. W. Bailey, and Dr. George F. Winston. The Board of Agriculture granted liquor licenses to twenty-three applicants yesterday, the time being six months each. The revenue to the city is $2,500.

THE EDITORS

North Carolina Press Association at Wrightsville Beach.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WIMINGTON, N. C., July 1.—The thirty-first annual convention of the North Carolina Press Association was called to order this morning at the Seashore Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, with a large and representative attendance. The meeting was called to order by Editor W. E. Marshall, of the Gastonia Gazette, and Secretary J. B. Smith, of the Raleigh News and Observer. Rev. R. L. Law of Lumber Bridge, opened with prayer. A committee from the Chamber of Commerce welcomed the visitors. Iredell Meares, Esq., delivered the address of welcome, and the response was by R. F. Beasley, of Monroe.

President Marshall delivered his annual address. A resolution of love and respect was adopted in compliment to the venerable editor, Dr. T. B. Kingsbury, of Wilmington.

The afternoon session was devoted to two addresses. "Typographical Correctness and Mechanical Excellence—Are They Worth While?" by J. D. Bivins, of Albemarle.

The Local Advertiser—How Can He Be Best Secured, Served and Retained?" by D. J. Wichard, of Greenville.

To-night the annual conference was delivered by D. Archibald Johnson, of Thomasville.

The following resolution was offered, tonight, by Row and P. Basley, of the Monroe Journal:

Recognizing the great importance of an adequate press to the industries and resources of North Carolina at the World Exposition at St. Louis in 1904.

Resolved, that we, the North Carolina Press Association, most heartily endorse the efforts being made by the State ad hoc committee, and by Governor Aycock, to raise by private subscription the sum of $10,000 to duplicate a like sum raised by the State for this purpose, thereby making a fitting exhibition on that occasion.

KILLED ON THE TRACK

Plan of Alumnae to Save Greensboro Female College.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
GREENSBORO, N. C., July 1.—W. E. P. Green, who has been a local collector for Collier's publication, was instantly killed here on the shifting sands of the Southern Railway at 10 o'clock to-day.

He was crossing tracks and stepped from an approaching engine on to a track where he was killed. He was carrying a box of cigars, but not otherwise disfiguring him.

On his person was found a new suit of clothes, from which the tags had not been removed, $3 in money, a gold ring and a new pair of gold watch. Several receipts were found in his pockets, but nothing to indicate positively where he was from.

He was applied to a boarding house here two weeks ago for board for himself and wife, but there was no room for him, and no further notice of him can yet be found, except that he was killed by several as collector for Collier's Weekly.

At an enthusiastic meeting of the alumnae of Greensboro Female College, held last night, steps were taken and plans formulated to save the college. It is proposed to raise a sum of $10,000 by the alumnae and the two Methodist Conferences of the State to purchase and endow the college and continue the school.

The Board of Education of the two Conferences of the Methodist Church meet here with the directors of the college to-night to mature plans for its purchase.

ing beaten his wife unmercifully with a razor strop, and it is said by his neighbors, all of whom live in Spencer, that the unfortunate woman barely escaped for her life while her husband had left off beating her long enough to go into another room for a pistol, with which he told her he would kill her.

Mrs. Cable is regarded as a most estimable Christian woman, and so far as can be learned there has not been the slightest provocation for the abuse of her husband. The sympathy of the entire community, as a unit, is with her.

When interviewed today, she positively refused to live with Cable again, as she has been in constant dread of her life for months, having been mistreated in a similar manner on former occasions.

Rev. R. F. Bumpas, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, will leave July 1st for an extended European tour.

Gleanings From Goochland.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
IRWING, VA., July 1.—Yesterday's execution afforded much interest to the neighborhood people, many of whom took this opportunity to see the doctored boys in black who are guiding the street cars. Needless to say, very few of the executionists rode on the street cars, and many of the unsophisticated could be seen walking timidly along the street, casting anxious glances from side to side as if fearing to become target of the bluecoats.

Miss Annie M. Hermann, a most attractive daughter of Petersburg, is spending a few weeks at Dog Town, visiting her schoolmate, Miss Sallie N. Brookins.

THE JEWISH SABBATH DAY

Commission Declined to Recommend That It Be Changed to Sunday.

(By Associated Press.)

DETROIT, MICH., July 1.—The Sabbath question, one of the most important matters now before the Jewish people, was taken up at the forenoon session to-day by the Central Conference of American Rabbis. Rabbi J. Voorsanger, of San Francisco, chairman of the Sabbath commission appointed at the last meeting of the conference to consider all phases of the Jewish Sabbath and the question of changing it from Sabbath to Sunday, presented the report of the commission.

The commission, after a most careful consideration, decided that it had no jurisdiction to recommend anything but the nature of legislation looking toward any change, and declared that the conference was incompetent to legislate any fundamental Jewish institution out of existence.

The commission reported that a definition of the religious authority that should regulate the authority and discipline of the Jews was paramount to any other question. They recommended the creation of a national conference, composed of rabbis and laymen, constituting an authority to which all ritual and discipline questions might be referred.

The commission also reported that while historically they could not find any argument to declare a change from Sabbath to Sunday schismatic, they would prefer to relegate so important a question to any mature authority properly constituted to decide it.

TWO PROSTRATIONS

Old Sol Found His First Victims of the Year Yesterday.

Old Sol found his first two victims of the season yesterday. These first heat prostrations since last summer occurred in the morning at 8 o'clock and at 8 o'clock in the afternoon.

William Johnson, a white man employed at the American Tobacco Company's plant, Old Sol was just beginning to heat that smile that did not come off for twelve hours, when at 8 o'clock he toppled over. John Lucas, who was working at the Trigg Shipyards, stood up under the blazing arrows of the sun's rays as long as he could, but at 8 o'clock, down he went.

The ambulance surgeon attended both men and took them to their homes.

LOOKS LIKE HUNG JURY

No Decision In Case of Alfred Sandridge.

THE JURY IS LOCKED UP

Given All Night to Agree Upon a Verdict—The Evidence Taken Yesterday, and the Speeches Made on Either Side.

There appears now every prospect of a hung jury in the case of Alfred Sandridge, who is on trial in the Hustings Court for the murder of Miss Nannie Morris, his sweetheart, on Church Hill last winter.

The argument in the case was completed yesterday evening late, and it was given to the jury promptly, that body having reported to the court a failure to agree, after an hour's deliberations.

The jury was sent to the Lexington Hotel for the night, and will report again at 10 o'clock this morning.

The case is one of peculiar interest, the killing of Miss Morris by young Sandridge and the attempt of the latter to take his Richardson having been widely discussed throughout the city.

Mr. H. M. Smith is conducting the case for the accused, and the interests of the State are being looked after by Commonwealth's Attorney D. C. Richardson.

It has been a little royal from the start between the lawyers, and a long list of witnesses have been introduced on both sides.

The defense made by Mr. Smith for his client is that of temporary insanity, and he introduced Drs. J. Allison Hodges and H. Parker as experts on this point yesterday.

Of course, no one can conjecture the result, though a hung jury would be no great surprise to the public.

MR. BRISTOW FIRST.
The first witness to appear the stand when court opened yesterday was Mr. B. C. Bristow, a carriage manufacturer, for whom the prisoner had worked.

The line of his testimony, like that of others who appeared for the defense, was that Sandridge was of weak mind, and never seemed to have been wholly responsible.

Dr. W. H. Parker, who attended both the prisoner and his victim, was then put on, and after telling what he knew Mr. Smith introduced Dr. J. Allison Hodges, who gave expert testimony at great length on the subject of insanity.

ARGUMENT BEGINS.
The defense here rested and the court instructed the jury and the argument was immediately gone into.

Judge Richardson opened in a brief speech for the prosecution, in which he reviewed the case rapidly, and asked the jury to convict the prisoner.

Mr. Smith followed in a powerful argument of nearly two hours for his client, and when at 8 o'clock he ended with a pathetic appeal for mercy there was much weeping in the court-room. Beside the young prisoner sat his aged mother and father, and they and other relatives and friends were deeply touched.

Mr. Smith reviewed the case from his standpoint at some length, and then he took up the evidence and handled it with characteristic ability. He dwelt upon the testimony of Dr. Hodges, the expert on insanity, as well as that of Dr. Parker, and the long line of other witnesses by whom he had sought to prove that Sandridge had always been weak-minded, and that he was so regarded by all who knew him well.

He took several whacks at Judge Richardson's opening argument and then launched into a splendid appeal for his client's freedom. In closing Mr. Smith said:

"If it be true, as we are told, that departed spirits are permitted to return and visit again their earthly habitation, we may well believe that the angelic spirit of the young woman is hovering about the scene of her death, and that gentlemen will temper justice with mercy, and declare by your verdict, 'we forgive him, for he knew not what he did.'"

She would, I believe, entreat you not to further condemn his aged mother and father, who sit there weeping and broken-hearted by his side, but to restore him once more to their bosoms, to comfort and bless them in their declining years."

ANOTHER STRONG SPEECH.

Judge Richardson closed in a brilliant effort on behalf of the Commonwealth, and said that if the prisoner was to be acquitted upon the flimsy testimony adduced by the defense, the court could not protect the community from murder and lawlessness, and that the prisoner must be sentenced to the lunatic asylum under the law. The Commonwealth's Attorney, taking up the evidence and dissecting it in an able manner, contended that the man had not been even temporarily insane, and that the prisoner must be sentenced to the lunatic asylum under the law. The Commonwealth's Attorney, taking up the evidence and dissecting it in an able manner, contended that the man had not been even temporarily insane, and that the prisoner must be sentenced to the lunatic asylum under the law.

Mr. Richardson here had some rather sharp passages with Mr. Smith as to the admissibility of the testimony of Dr. Hodges, and the former proceeded with his argument.

AN EARNEST APPEAL.

He did not believe the defense had shown that the prisoner was insane at the time of the commission of the crime, and he appealed to the jury to stand up like men and do their duty.

"I, too, have sympathy for the aged mother and father who sit beside the prisoner," said the speaker, "but, gentlemen of the jury, there is another side to the picture. In this court-room sits another aged father, who mourns not the plight of a wayward son, but who is crushed by the murder of an innocent daughter, and the sorrow that comes and that of the woman who day by day with her in a lowly occupation, and who loved her with a devoted affection."

"The flowers may have faded upon the humble mound that the poor mother and father have dug for her, but the memory of the deed will be forever fresh in their minds, and the dignity of the law should be vindicated, and in leaving the case with you, gentlemen, I again implore you to do your full duty."

It was 6:30 o'clock when Judge Richardson completed his argument, and immediately the jury retired to their room. The anxious waiting spectators and friends of the prisoner took advantage of the full to walk around in an effort to get cool.

The young prisoner sat in his chair, looking weary, a vacant look and occasionally using his handkerchief and palm leaf fan.

At 7:30 o'clock Judge Witt ascended the bench and ordered the jury brought in. Mr. George L. Bagdod, foreman, replied to the question put by Clerk Christian, said they had not reached a verdict. Upon the assurance of several of the members that they would hardly get to-

PUSS IN BOOTS

Excellent Dramatic Production by the Winchester Society People.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WINCHESTER, VA., July 1.—The crowning event of the season in Winchester was the production at the Auditorium last night of "Puss in the Boots," by Professor Madison J. Lee, of St. Louis, assisted by a local talent, comprising the best people of Winchester.

The costumes were handsome, and the fact that so many social favorites participated made it an attractive affair. It was for the benefit of the Winchester Memorial Hospital.

There were also drills by fifty children, sixteen girls and the same number of young ladies. Some of those who participated were Misses Sallie and Marie Abell, of Baltimore; Orabel Blandon-Crockett, of Kentucky; Mrs. J. R. Leighty, daughter-in-law of former congressman Leighty, of Indiana; Miss Ida Pike, of Washington; Mrs. J. A. Humphries, of Boston; Mrs. J. C. Wheat, of Chicago; Mrs. J. C. Wheat, of Chicago; Mrs. H. THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

—BY—
Harry Tucker

If I only had a street car of my own, I'd ride from South America to Rome; I'd ride from morn till night. From darkness until light— If I only had a trolley of my own.

I'd run a line from Fulton to the Lake, And, as for fares, they'd always take the cash. I'd charge them two for five, As sure as I'm alive, If I only had a trolley of my own.

I'd send the soldiers out into the West, Where they may shoot the Indians for a test. I'd send the special cops, Until the trouble stops, If I only had a trolley of my own.

I'd pay my men a million plunks a year, For strikes and things like that, I'd never fear. I'd set them up to champagne, teas, To force them out on meat and spring peas, If I only had a trolley of my own.

I'd only let them work two days a week; No better job my men would care to seek. They'd work four hours a day, And I'd be sure to pay, If I only had a trolley of my own.

I'd let them stop each day, at 3 o'clock, And let them draw the interest on the bank. And if they wanted more, I'd simply say, "why, sure," If I only had a trolley of my own.

If we were in the place of our good friend, little Johnnie Murphy, we wouldn't care. For he has a bicycle. And with a bicycle a fellow can walk along the street and look at the people in the cars and laugh.

It is to laugh. And when the regular entered the hotel with his handkerchief in his hand, and his collar all wilted up, and Jim Disney gave him a look, and told the boy to take the bicycle back to the stable, and give it some feed, and we don't think that when the shade registers in the back again, and he has to ride that wheel, but will, like Mayor Taylor, continue to walk.

There is one man in this town who has our sincerest sympathy. And that man is Admiral Porter, of the Chancery Court.

For two weeks he has been walking from the City Hall to Church Hill, and back again, and he has been walking up the City Hall steps, because a man not in sympathy with the strike rode up one day to the City Hall.

We fear that so much exercise on the part of the Commodore will wear him out, and he will be blown off.

Yet we hope not.

Our good friend Joe West, we understand, is going to run an excursion to the seashore on the Glorious Fourth.

As that is our birthday, and as the Six Barrelled Ones want to celebrate it fittingly, we hope that we will receive a bunch of the necessary groceries so we may all go down to the sea and hear the wild waves say a few things to each other.

Chicken sandwiches and some sardines and cheese will be acceptable, also. And some custard pies. A bucket of Kirkwood's buttermilk, too.

HERMAN GETS CONTRACT

Will Print Money Order Blanks for Government.

RUNS FOR FOUR YEARS

It Was Rejection of His Bid That Led to the Peremptory Dismissal of Superintendent Metcalf—United Typothetae Opposed It.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.—Postmaster-General Payne to-day awarded the contract for printing the money order blanks of the government to Paul Herman, of Philadelphia, N. J. Herman was the lowest of four bidders, and the award of the contract, which involves the payment of between $300,000 and $350,000 during the next fiscal year, will effect a saving of nearly $45,000 in the four years' contract. Herman's bid was opposed by the present contractor, the Wynkoop-Hallenback-Crawford Company, of New York, and by the United Typothetae of America. Superintendent Metcalf, of the Money Order Bureau, was dismissed some days ago on the charge of indiscretion in seeking the withdrawal of Herman as a bidder in favor of the present contractors.

At a final hearing before the Postmaster-General to-day Herman submitted evidence to show that he was not a straw bidder, as alleged, and swore that he has not, directly or indirectly, assigned any interest whatever in the contract. Mr. Hallenback, Herman said, offered him, if he would withdraw his bid, $100,000 a week and a large part of 25 per cent. of the net profits of his business, which he would guarantee to be at least $5,000 a year, in addition to his salary. He said Mr. Tooker, of the Metropolitan Printing Company, offered to pay him $5,000 if he would agree to execute the contract in that establishment and let them share in the contract, and to make a contract for five years to pay him $100 per week salary. These propositions he rejected.

The contract was handsomely, and the fact that so many social favorites participated made it an attractive affair. It was for the benefit of the Winchester Memorial Hospital.

There were also drills by fifty children, sixteen girls and the same number of young ladies. Some of those who participated were Misses Sallie and Marie Abell, of Baltimore; Orabel Blandon-Crockett, of Kentucky; Mrs. J. R. The decree also directs the receiver to take over the property and to immediately assume the management and operation of the company.

Judge Kirkpatrick said that one of the duties of the receiver would be to confer with the reorganization committee, and to give to the committee the benefit of the difficulties into which it had been thrown.

BANQUET TO FOREIGNERS

MR. REYNOLDS' FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mr. William Watkins Reynolds, who died at 11 o'clock last night after a brief illness with typhoid fever, will take place at 4:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church. The services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Macfarlane, of Hampton Sidley. The remains will be interred at Greenlawn Cemetery.

Mr. Reynolds was one of the most prominent and generally popular young men of the city, being a member of several of the best social organizations. He was reported yesterday that he had rallied and the announcement of his death came as a sudden shock to his family and friends.

Lee Clely and Linwood Thomas, the two boys who were arrested on the charge of obstructing the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company's tracks, have been acquitted in the Bloodfield (Warwick county) Court. There was no evidence to connect the youths with the placing of the rods on the tracks near Morrisons. The complaint was made by Special Agent Duke, of the Chesapeake and Ohio force.

MATINEE HORSE RACES.

An interesting series of matinee horse races will be put on by the Hampton Roads Driving Club Saturday afternoon at the park at Riverview. The entries closed yesterday, and the management says that the races will be the best seen here this season.

The shipyard will close down Saturday; the bank, custom house, postoffice and many of the stores and business houses will close for the day.

The Silver Link Lodge, Odd-Fellows, installed its newly elected officers at its meeting to-night.

The negro organization question will be taken up by the Central Labor Union at its meeting Friday night, and, notwithstanding the fact that at a mass meeting of negroes held last Friday night, resolutions were adopted opposing the proposed organization, it is generally believed that the Central Labor Union will decide to allow the negroes to organize and affiliate with the body if they choose to do so.
